

EMPLOYER OF THE YEAR

This award recognises organisations have clearly defined company values and examples of how employees are aligned with them.

They have demonstrable commitment to employee development, which in turn creates a stimulating and supportive workplace. Initiatives are implemented which benefit employees, including health and wellbeing schemes.

The judges will be looking at:

- Why learning and development is important to the organisation
- How training needs and skills requirements are assessed
- Investment, commitment and support given to staff
- Direct benefit gained by both individuals and the organisation

